

BUFFALO ROBES.

The attention of farmers and others to the subject of BUFFALO ROBES has been great, and during the last two or three months have been many inquiries from all parts of the country. We have now one of the regular Buffalo-Robe Houses at Stirling, and are offering them for sale at $10.00 per skin, and for paying expenses of $2.00 per skin, we will give the skins to the buyer. We can afford to sell them at this price, as we have a large stock of them, and are anxious to get rid of them. As we are very anxious to get rid of them, we will offer them at a very low price.

THE NORTH-WEST BUFFALO ROBE CO.,
The largest for companies in the British Colonies, and the best quality.

At the present time we are examining and pricing

the robes, and this we invite every one to do so.

We shall be pleased to receive any information you may have concerning the robes.

GIABRO WARMHORN,
BELLEVILLE.

Grand Junction Time-Table.

On and after Monday, November 3d, train will run daily, between Belleville and Stirling, at 9:00 a.m., arriving at Belleville at 10:30.

Leave Belleville at 2:00 p.m., arriving at Stirling at 4:30.

E. H. BRENNAN,
General Sup't.

B. G. CIBERT, Doctor.
Rooms in Nathan Jones' block, Front street, Belleville.

New Avertisements this week.
Notice—Edmund Caverley,
Sales of Village Lots—Geo. A. Skinner,
Buffalo Robes—Glasgow Warehouses,
Watches, Watches—W. W. Smith.

HOME MATTERS.

Those who are indebted to me by either note or book account will please take notice that I am now ready to receive payment of all such that are due or past due, and those not settled by the 1st of November will be placed in other hands for collection. John Graham.

Why can Stirling not have a skating rink?

The beautiful mud is now concealed by the beautiful snow.

The epiphany has made its appearance at Belleville, though as yet not many cases are reported.

The brickwork of Scott's hall is finished, and the roof on. What puzzles Sandy now is whether to build a front fascia or not.

Preparations are being made for a public school entertainment about New Years, of a somewhat different nature from the one given last year.

Mr. Mundell has dropped the bakery line of business, and will hereafter devote his whole time and energies to the propagation and promotion branches.

A mechanist's institute for Stirling is being talked of. If a sufficient interest can be aroused, nothing better for the intellectual welfare of the village could be devised.

Arrangements have been finally completed for the public spelling-match spoken of several weeks ago. The preliminary meeting will be held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, December 1st, when the bell will set rolling. No admission charge will be exacted. An expected prize will be offered for petition. This is a most profitable as well as interesting exercise, and may well be taken an interest in by old and young.

In this week's issue will be found a correct report of the Trenton grain and produce market, which will be continued here after regular. Previous news has been made to have been received from Mr. J. W. Hodges, who has kindly consented to get the figures from the market clerk on the day mentioned, and forward these direct to Tax News-Ancus office. This will be much more interesting to rely on the correctness of the report.

Last spring a fine black horse, the property of George Wilson, received a kick from a mate severe enough to lame it seriously. As a result it was scarcely used all summer, and several weeks ago, while being led into the stable, being nearly recovered, it broke away from the lead and ran wild. Strange to say, Mr. Wilson has not been able to hear the first word of its whereabouts—cannot find or hear of any person who ever saw it after it left the gate, and the supposition is that it wandered into some secluded place, got cast, and died without anyone's knowledge or drowning.

Attention is directed to the sale of village lots by auction on Wednesday, December 1st. This property is the balance of the Ross estate, comprising what is left of "the commons," south of Mr. Bell's residence. Many of the lots lie in blocks, as will be seen by looking at the map, and make desirable places for houses or pasture lots. This is the last property left at hand that is available in building lots that is likely to go so comparatively low figures, and those who wish to provide homes for themselves could do better than buy here. There are seven acres of such lots to be offered, and fifth of an acre each, given across in all.

An inquest was held at Hastings last Monday on the body of Harry McLean, who was killed in a collision with a team near that place on Sunday morning. The evidence showed that deceased, who was a laborer employed on the line, fell after jumping from a car which was in motion, and the wheels of the engine and freight cars had passed over him, causing his death. A verdict of accidental death was returned. Deceased, who lived in Snowdon, was buried at Hastings.

The following is from the Bay City (Mich.) daily Delta and the Marion (Ind.) Standard:—
"The attention of farmers and others to the subject of BUFFALO ROBES has been great, and during the last two or three months have been many inquiries from all parts of the country. We have now one of the regular Buffalo-Robe Houses at Stirling, and are offering them for sale at $10.00 per skin, and for paying expenses of $2.00 per skin, we will give the skins to the buyer. We shall be pleased to receive any information you may have concerning the robes."

—
The following is from the Bay City (Mich.) daily Delta and the Marion (Ind.) Standard:

"Dr. Elmer having taken his departure to New York and his old Canadian home, intending to spend the first ten days in sight-seeing and business combined, has much pleasure in stating to his friends in general that his practice will be conducted by Dr. James Lister of the firm of Gregory & Lister, Standish, Mich. Dr. L. has made a host of friends in this community through his skill and gentlemanly attitude in practice. We cordially wish him the same success in Bay City."

An agricultural paper reaching its readers every week has long been required, and we have it now in the Canadian Farmer, the only weekly agricultural paper published in Canada, which is to be had gratis. It contains a mass of valuable and exciting reading matter of interest to the agriculturist, besides a goodly proportion of general items and literary extracts of high order. It contains handsome illustrations of various agricultural, horticultural and stock subjects, and altogether is a valuable journal.

Another reader is Agribusiness, copies free to any one desiring them, and will send the paper for the remainder of this year and all of 1881 for $1.

Published at Welland, Ont.

A despatch from Madoc, dated the 10th, gives the following painful relation: "A young man named John Brown has lately been teaching school some forty miles north of this place. He is a member of the church, and another young man named Gunter, went to cut wood for a sick man near by. On the way home the two got lost, and darkness overtaking them added terror to the situation. They disputed as to the way out, one going one way and the other another. Gunter was lost, and Brown, who had been up all night, was soon overcome by sleep, and got home Sunday morning. Brown not making his appearance, a number of persons turned out and scoured the woods for him. They hunted all day Sunday without success. On Monday search was again made, and this time the party traced the missing man, and found his dead body about four miles from the house of the sick man near Gunter. It seems he had wandered round and round, walking perhaps a great distance. It is very probable his death was caused more by exposure to the intense cold of Sunday than by exhaustion. There are evidences that he was alive on Sunday.

The people of West Huntingdon, in connection with the repairing and refitting of the Rev. Mr. E. G. Dowling's pulpit, are taking a turn of great interest at the re-opening services on Sabbath next. Thorough repairs have been given the building inside and out. The grounds are fitted up with a considerable amount of care; a new fence, with stone base, 150 feet, in front, makes, with its painting finish, a fine appearance; new platforms at door; new stone steps leading to the entrance; new door and sash; new windows, sash and glass (of divers colors); fresh painting by Rev. Mr. Dowling, both in pulpit and on ceiling; for chandelier, etc.; seats and doors grained; new stoves and pipes ornamentally arranged, and other improvements.

There is a new organ and piano-forte.

The organ was built by Mr. Dowling, and the piano-forte by Mr. Dowling.

The new iron swing-bridge will be completed in a few days. It is to stand upon a central pier, and is, we believe, the finest structure of the kind in the part of the province. Cost, $8,000.

The new Presbyterian church, situated on the hill side of the river, presents an imposing appearance.

It is of brick, and built in the Gothic style of architecture. The entrance is in a tower at north-east corner.

The interior is not yet completed, and the tower most likely will not be finished till spring.

The most dreadful colliery accident that has ever happened in Canada took place Friday morning last in one of the Alton coal mines in Nova Scotia.

At six o'clock, when half of more men were at work in the shaft, an explosion swept across the mine with such terrific force that when the crash subsided the southern side of the mine was blocked up with debris, beneath which more than forty men were smothered and crushed.

The funeral in the Sidney Baptist church

Tuesday night proved aghastly scene.

Twenty dollars was realized, and the management thought the sum would have been fully doubled had not the joy of the evening been so stormy. The after-refractions had been partaken of, given up to Rev. Mr. Dowling, whose services were highly appreciated.

He is a man of great personal interest and admiration. An orchard was raised, it covered nearly the whole rear wall of the church. The scene "Holzhausen's feast," at the moment the handwriting appears on the wall, is lifelike in the extreme.

The interior of one side of the palace, which had been kindly loaned, in the form of a square, each side containing a court, with a grove of trees on the ledges above; the musicians' gallery, from which the players have fled in dismay at the sight of the mystic characters above their heads; the throne, with the blasphemous head, the chair, with the heathen god, to which libations had been drunk from the sacred vessel brought from the temple; the magicians, foiled when commanded to read the terrible doom, and the comical figure of Daniel, as he exposes the impudent monarch and his followers the handmaidens of Babylon. The artist is shown with such power that he could easily imagine himself present at the grand banquet. This picture, as well as each of the others, is eighteen feet long and twelve feet high, and the artist's room, for the skillful brush of the rev. artist, will be the ornament of the walls of the hall.

The artist is a native of Stirling.

Last spring a fine black horse, the property of George Wilson, received a kick from a mate severe enough to lame it seriously.

As a result it was scarcely used all summer, and several weeks ago, while being led into the stable, being nearly recovered, it broke away from the lead and ran wild.

Strange to say, Mr. Wilson has not been able to hear the first word of its whereabouts—cannot find or hear of any person who ever saw it after it left the gate, and the supposition is that it wandered into some secluded place, got cast, and died without anyone's knowledge or drowning.

Attention is directed to the sale of village

lots by auction on Wednesday, December 1st.

This property is the balance of the Ross estate, comprising what is left of "the commons," south of Mr. Bell's residence.

Many of the lots lie in blocks, as will be seen by looking at the map, and make desirable places for houses or pasture lots. This is the last property left at hand that is available in building lots

that is likely to go so comparatively low figures, and those who wish to provide homes for themselves could do better than buy here. There are seven acres of such lots to be offered, and fifth of an acre

each, given across in all.

—

The undersigned having removed his home and effects to another place

in the city, and having no longer

any use for his former residence,

he is compelled to sell the same.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

its original value, and will accept no less

than $1,000 for it.

He has no desire to sell it at less than

